Multiple Changes

Ring! It's 8:24 and the bell rang loud throughout The school. Lockers slammed, and the halls emptied as students quickly made their way to first hour. As another long year began, students walked into what seemed, something different. Besides the freshmen, there were new faces within the walls of Yale High. Mr. Paul Flynn had taken over for Mrs. Pynnonen, and was teaching Reading Techniques, Speech and Drama, Speed Reading, and was also conducting this years school play, Absolutely Murder. His better half, Mrs. Mellissa Flynn, had taken over in the science department teaching Chemistry and Physical Science. The biggest surprise came during the beginning of the school year. Superintendent Ralph Darin was proud to announce the passage of the bond issue. This issue, which had been turned down several times before, asked the voters to fund the building of a new high school, and additions to the elementary schools. The bond passed with 1,221 voting yes, and 1079 voting no. Building is scheduled to start in the spring, and is predicted to be finished by the spring of 1995. Changes in Yale High School happen almost every year. From new teachers to new students to new schools. Good or bad, people learn to accept changes. Without them life would be dull.

◇ The hallway fills with students between classes. This photo shows suicide hall. It is the most crowded hall in Yale High because of lockers on both sides.

◇ Now this is different. Here John Starkweather -poses for a very strange shot in the road. Kids, don't try this at home.

◆ Hard to make decisions always require thinking. Sometimes taking time out to think about them is best. Dathen Shifflett best illustrates this idea.

◆ School is very time consuming. It takes a lot of hard work and dedication to get to where you want to go in life. Here David Wille takes time to do his homework in class.

Making the Call

We are faced with many choices. Whether it is for school, work, or recreation, they all seem to revolve around one thing-Our future. Each choice we make shapes our future. We make decisions on what classes to take, what colleges to go to, and most of all, how to live our lives. In high school, it is important to make the right decisions because the last four years depend on what we will be doing for the rest of our lives

◆ Making the Call is important in being an individual. Using your thoughts and ideas to form opinions and decisions makes you an individual. On the left, Jay Wofford is talking on the telephone.

Our friends are a major part of the decision making process. Most of us go to our friends to seek advice. We depend a lot on what people say and think, and we tend to make our decisions based on those principles. The problem with this is, we are using other peoples opinions to make our choices. In other words, they are deciding for us.

The key to breaking this chain is to be your own person- To be an individual. We must be original in our ideas, in our actions, and not be afraid to take chances. We must not fear what other people think. The only one who matters is you. The decisions you make affect you, so do what you want to do. Don't let others persuade you otherwise. It's your decision. It's Your Call.

Challenging Experiences

If Life at school was put into one word, it would have to be intolerable, but that would be an understatement. If it's not Mr. Hunt telling you the air/speed velocity of an African Barn Swallow carrying a coconut, it's Mr. Presnell making ridiculous remarks about the Portuguese.

Inside the walls of our mighty fortress we struggle through our four year sentence challenging every task put in front of us. Such tasks include passing Algebra, making it to class on time, and living off of school food.

"It has been one of the most difficult things I have had to do," says Junior Audrey Brennan. It is not a joke; school has become one of the most challenging experiences we will have to deal with in our lives. College has almost become required in our society to succeed, and without a high school diploma, failure is almost inevitable.

So when you're sitting in the back of Ms. Bromberger's class wondering if the constant spelling of meaningless three letter words will ever end, just sit back, relax, and enjoy the ride because we should not fight to change our school, but learn to work within it.

◆ The cafeteria crowds with hungry students as lunch time begins. The school food is another so called challenging experience.

◆ Comfortable?

Jaime Stanfield shows off her designer duck slippers at Prom. She feels she must be comfortable to enjoy herself, and being comfortable was not in a pair of dress shoes.

◆ Claiming her balloons

Wonderful Tonite

I didn't get home until 8:00 the next morning,”
Travis Fahley said about the 1993 Junior and Senior Prom. Time was not an important issue when it came to the after-prom activities, with most students choosing not to come home until the early hours of the morning.

The theme for the 1993 prom was “Wonderful Tonite.” Although prom was held in Emmet Hall, due to over booking at St. Clair County Community College, it was “a lot of fun, and everyone appeared to be having a good time,” according to Jaime Kinney, who was invited to attend the year end event with Travis Fahley. The hall was extravagantly decorated and was well accomplished by the prom committee of '93.

When asked what he thought of the school event, Ryan Wesley answered, “Prom brings a feeling of coming together. It is your class, the one above you or the one below you, and we all hung out together. There were no cliques or separations.” Nobody thought that prom in Emmett Hall could be such a “Wonderful Tonite.”

Over the Rainbow

“I disobeyed my parents. I was a bad kid,” junior Jennifer Campbell said of her Homecoming expeditions. The 1993 Yale High School Homecoming took place on a cold and rainy day on October 9, 1993. Most of the representatives agreed that it was nice to be recognized by their fellow classmates. This year’s senior class representatives include Christine Aldis, Jared Thorner, Tanya McMurtry, Craig Hillis, Latricia Mason, and Jeremy Grove. The representatives for the junior class were Jennifer Campbell, Jason Schmidt, Andrea Rector, and Ryan O’Conner. The sophomores chose Jenny Starks and Mike Ryan to be their representatives. Kerri Brennan and Joel LaGore were chosen for the freshmen. When asked how they felt about being chosen king and queen, Jared Thorner and Christine Aldis said that they were “really excited,” and Jared added that he “felt embarrassed because I was the only one that was not in a football uniform.” Craig Hillis put his two cents in by replying that he “thought it was nice that Jared and Christine were picked because they’ve been together for so long.” The bad weather did not stifle the good times on Homecoming.

◇ Hippie day was one of the newest and strangest days picked by the student council. Jenny Parker participated greatly and gives the peace symbol to the camera.

◇ Western day was another big day during Spirit Week. People came dressed in cowboy hats, flannel shirts, and big belt buckles. Illustrating this is Junior Anderea Rector, and Senior Danielle Francik pirit week only comes once a year, so when it does, everyone is happy to participate in the Pre-Homecoming festivities. The 1993 spirit week, organized by the varsity cheerleaders, was quite a success with a lot of students in every class participating in the activities. The week started off with Garage Sale day where all the students dressed in old, grubby clothes. It progressed into Cowboy and Flannel day on Tuesday. On Wednesday the 60's were revisited with Hippie Day. Hats and college logos were worn on Thursday. Friday was the traditional Blue and White day.

"It was like a time-warp to actually see everyone dress like your parents did," said junioir Jessica Herrin about Hippie Day, which was her favorite day of spirit week. Another junior, Aaron Kozlowski, said that he "liked Flannel Day because my closet is filled with flannels and it was easy to find something to wear." The students in Yale High School look forward to Spirit week and the Pre-Homecoming festivities that came with it.

◆ The senior class showed their pride in Yale High school at the Pep assembly held in the park at the end of Spirit Week.

Express Yourself

Individuality is the most popular fad within the walls of Yale High School. Fads and Fashions are a continually changing process. Each student uses individuality as a call word to express themselves. There are many different variations amongst the students when it comes to the styles of clothing that they choose to wear. For example, the 60's are making a comeback this year with some students choosing to wear bell-bottoms, chokers, and platform shoes. Also, the more traditional styles such as colored denims and flannel shirts topped off with a base-ball cap are pretty popular among students.

Beepers are another popular fad with some students, that way they can be reached anywhere at any time. Cellular phones are also big, allowing one to be able to make a phone call at any location. Another growing fad this year is tatoos. Tatoos allow students to further express their individuality.

The 1993-94 school year and the students within the walls of Yale High School have proved that anything and everything is in style. Each student wears their clothes in their own special manner, proving that individuality is, indeed, the most popular fad this year.

◇ "I don't feel very natural," said Junior Justin Kestner as he and Sophomore Tricia Flint posed for the camera on a chilly October day at the park.

◇ Black, black, and black. Here John Starkweather and Jaime Stanfield are dressed in the traditional "Grunge" clothes.

◇ Working after school at Rose Anne's Flowers is Heather Bahr

After School

◇ One of the popular after school activities for Yale high school students is a variety of athletic activities as demonstrated by Zyg Porada with cross country.

It's 2:44 pm on a Friday afternoon. With only one minute left until the weekend officially begins, some students dread the upcoming weekend while others look forward to it all week.

The students who dread the time spent away from school are usually the ones who have after school or weekend jobs. These students work at such places as the mall or fast food restaurants.

Those students who look forward to the weekend are usually involved in less strenuous activities. Many of those students take part in extra-curricular activities offered through the school such as FHA, SADD, the play and a wide choice of sports. Yet the students who 'hang out' at parties or the mall have even less strenuous worries than the others.

Even after all that, it is important to remember that each school year is more than school; time spent in school accounts for only one third of a student's time. The remainder is spent sleeping and searching in pursuit of after school activities. But no matter what goes on after school and on the weekends-"It's Our Call" to do what we want to!

he bell rings, and Students are bustling to get to their classes and avoid the dreaded detention that is received when one reaches the point of three tardies in a class. This is a typical morning within the walls of Yale High School. Most students find ways to chat with friends in the hallways and still make it to a class on time.

As the day is building to a crescendo, the students become more lively and are able to concentrate better on their daily activities. The students can be seen with more smiles and more friendly greetings for their fellow classmates. Although the times are different at school this year, students adjusted quickly to the changes. For instance, because of the split sessions at the elementary, the high school and junior high had to adjust to the changes by pushing the time back close to an hour.

School work seemed to increase in volume and intensity this year with this being the first year for state endorsed diplomas. The endorsements made the MEAP tests all that much more important to students.

All of these changes have not, however, affected the purpose of school, which is a place for the students to become better educated and prepare for the future. Also, school is a place for one to visit with one's friends.

Now it's 2:45, and the last bell of the day rings, releasing students to attend their after school activities and looking forward to the next day of school.

Final Call

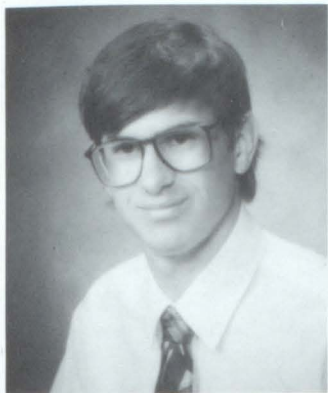

Class President's Address

How times flies.
We have seen so many before us finish off these years of frustrations, memories, and exile, to turn down new roads of experience. At last, it is our turn, and how quickly it is passing by. Soon, we will be off on our own separate ways, but the memories that we have experienced here cannot be replaced or abandoned. The moments have been far too unique for us to forget them.

Even though our school and town may not be anything special to the rest of the world, it is to us, and I don't think there is any place else we would have rather spent all these great years. For the years to come, I challenge you to stand for what you believe and to live to your potential. For those after us, remember to worship seniors, for they are worthy.

Sincerely,

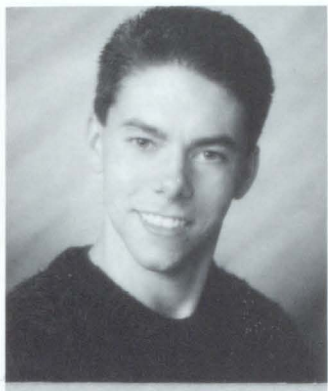

Michael G. Sullivan
Senior Class President

What Now?

Many seniors are faced with the question of what to do after high school. It's not a very easy question, but it's a very important question that must be answered. Many choices are available such as trade schools, junior college, military, or a major university. About 35% of the seniors here at Yale go to college after graduation, while 4% go into the military. Of the 35% that will be going to college after Yale, pressures of the ACT's and SAT's are on their minds.

The future is on most minds of students their senior year. "I plan to go to a junior college for two years then transfer to a university," replies senior Tiffany Meleg. However, senior Gena Palazzolo plans to go straight off to a university. When Mike Higgins was asked what question he was faced with after graduation, his response was, "What will I eat at the senior party?" "Deviled eggs sound good with lightly sprinkled paprika on top,". While others are thinking more seriously, "What college will I attend?" or "What's going to be my major," senior Travis Fahley asks. "I'm going into the NAVY for five years to establish a job and possibly make it a career while I'm earning money for college." a decision established by senior Chris Brown. Whether it be a junior college, university, or the military, the best decision eventually will prevail.

JUNIOR PROCLAMTION

Hi my name is Zygmunt Porada III, and I am the Junior's class president'. The other class officers are Kim Boughner, Vice president', Chris Backstrom, Treasurer', and Andrea Rector, Secretary.

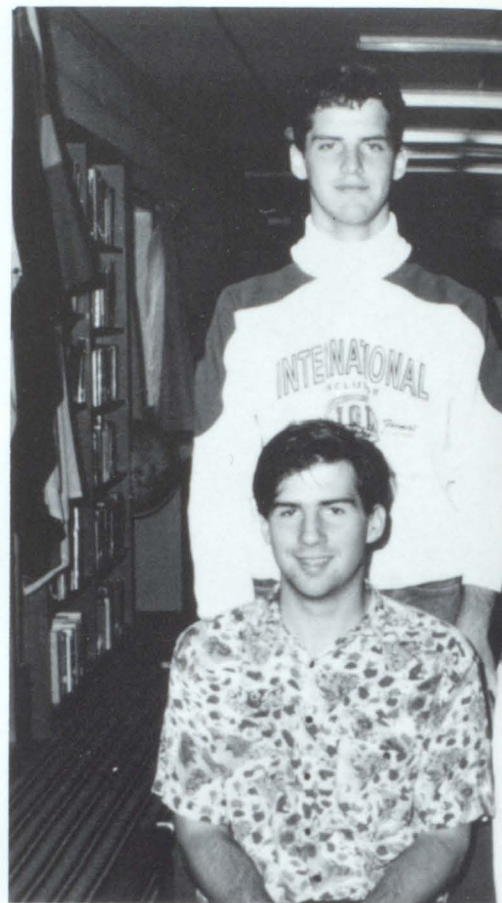

This year had a great start with homecoming . The attendance at float meetings was up, and the varsity football team won the game . Our candy sale was also a success , giving our class more money for prom our senior year and other activities . Class meetings this year lead to better communication between the different class and class officers . We have been able to get things started that most of the student body was interested in .

A goal this year for me to do for my class was to create a closer group of friends with class spirit . I'm working on getting a class trip for our senior year, mainly because we are rarely together as just a class . I'm still working on it , but hopefully I'll make some headway .

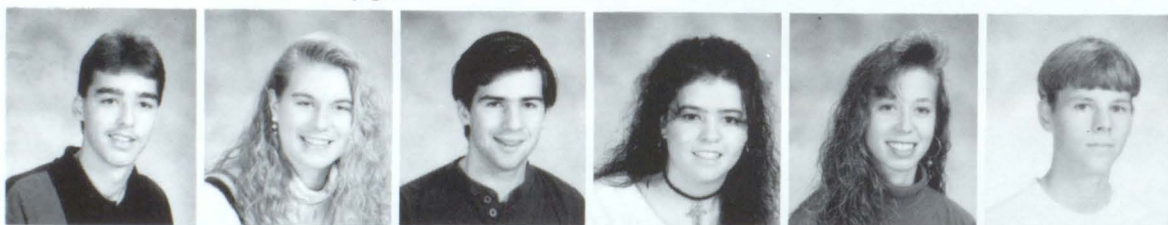

Our class sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Schrand have done an excellent job over the last three years . They give a lot of their time to help get activities together for the class ,and it is appreciated .

The best of wishes goes out to the seniors as they graduate and go out into the " real " world . Good luck class of '94 .

Sincerely yours,
Zygmunt Porada III

College Bound

What are most of the juniors going to do after graduation? Most of them said go to college or a technical school. Then there was that small group that said that they didn't know what they were going to do after high school.

What are some of the college's they wanted to attend. What degrees some students are going for. Some student said, "an associates degree would be good enough to get a good job." Then they found out that one out of every five jobs are for people with an associates degree and decided to go for there bachelors' degree to better their chances of getting a so well set job. Although the small group still didn't want to go to college, and they decided to take the easy way out and not to go to college. Unfortunately their futures are going to be ruff, and full of hard work.

To Follow, To lead, A Role Model

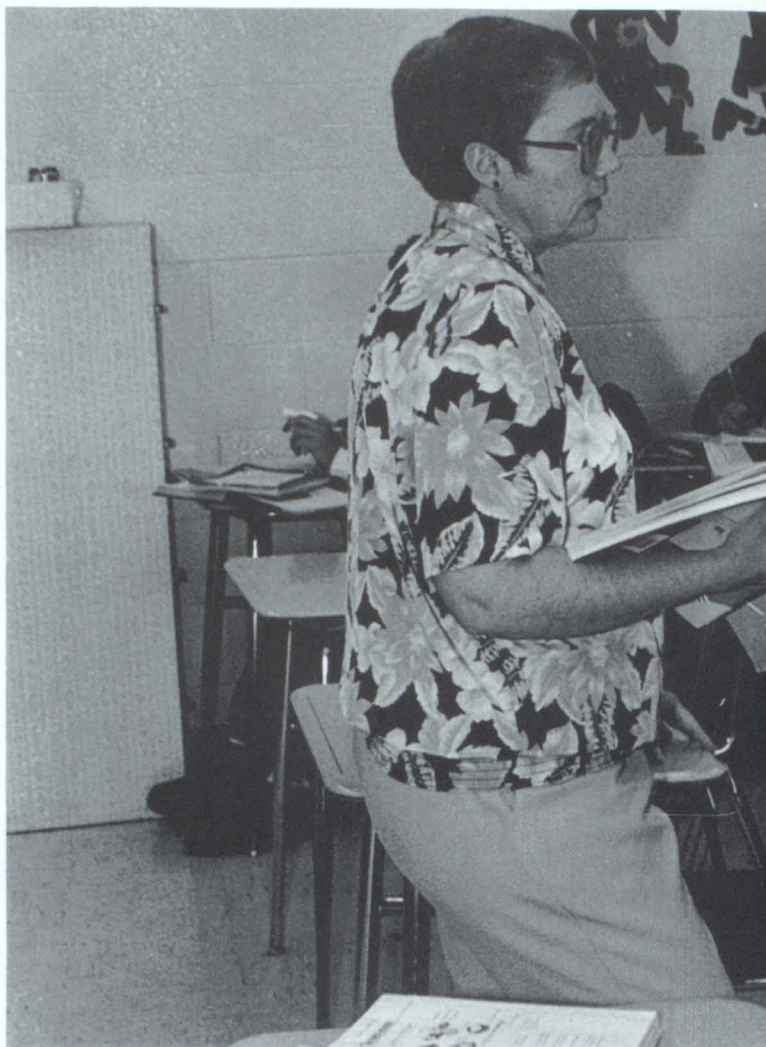

As the class of '94 gets ready to graduate, it's up to the class of '95 to be the role model for the underclassmen. Sabrina Kudzia said, "As a Junior, I try to have a positive outlook upon my education and show the under classmen the importance of their high school career." Varsity football player Justin Kestner and Varsity cross-country runner Demian Manceau were both quoted as saying, "Being on varsity sports is a way you can show the under classmen how important good sportsmanship is." Zyg Porada would be a great role model for the under classmen. Zyg is the Junior Class President, plus he's active in cross-country, track, basketball. Zyg is a member of the science club, PACE, and the school improvement team. Zyg Porada has received three awards, the Ted Stine, Board of education of Academic Excellence, and the Directors awards. He has a 3.645 G.P.A.. Zyg is very popular and well-liked by his fellow classmates. He's a good role model because he's smart, athletic and, popular with his peers. Justin Kestner was quoted for saying if the under classmen had anyone to model themselves after Zyg Porada would be a great first choice.

Hangin' out

Friday and Saturday nights are the two most popular nights. School's out for two days, they don't have to worry about homework unless they have one of those mean, selfish twenty pages of homework each weekend, no life out of school, teachers. All that aside, Friday and Saturday nights are known as cruise night where people just cruise Port Huron, a very popular place. It's where people go to be with friends and other peers from different schools. They show off cars when they're cruisin'. They let everyone know they have a kickin' car stereo system.

If they're not cruisin', then they're at the Birchwood Mall walking around, talking, seeing the new things in stores, or just hangin' out. Each weekend they can see hundreds of high school students in the mall. When asked Carrie Collins why the mall and cruise night are so popular, she said, "It's great to be able to drive around or go to the mall and see all your friends, shop, see a movie, or just to hang out."

In the junior section we ask, "what are some of the advantages of being a junior?"

Joe Stefanides, Paula McCormick, Neil Turner, and Jennnifer Skelton all basically said the same, "we only have one year left of school; we're allowed to go to prom without being invited, and most of us have our licenses."

Next question, "what are some of the disadvantages of being a junior?"

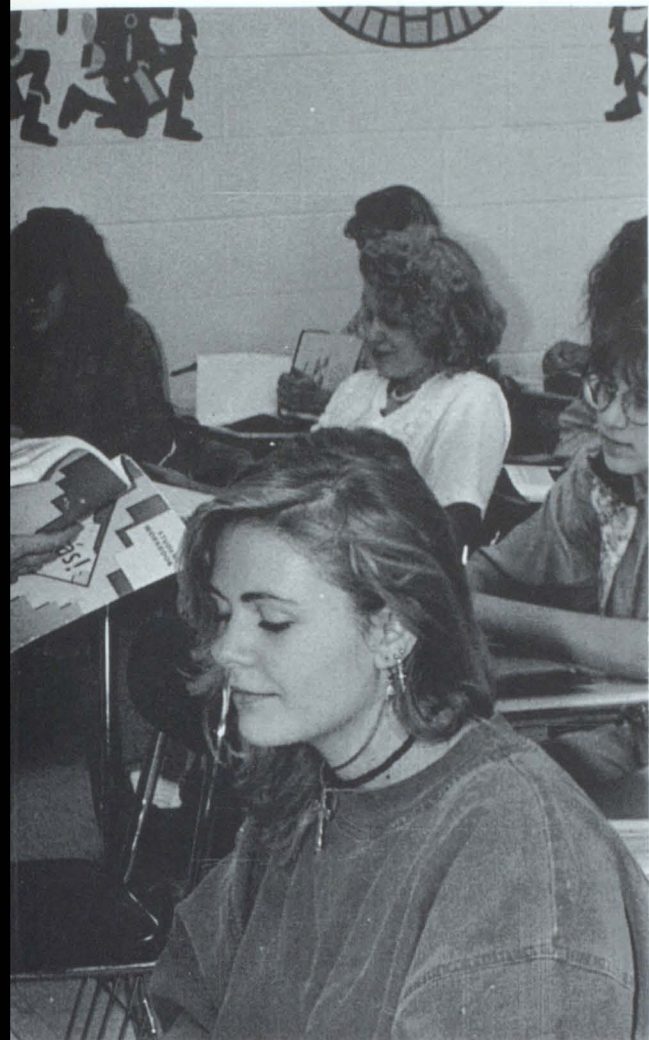

Jennifer, "the seniors can still pick on us,"

Paula and Joe both said, "we only have one year left of being with our friends, and then we graduate and go to college leaving them behind."

The last question was, "now as a junior, what are some of the things you are looking forward to this year?"

John Vogel, "becoming a senior and having fun in the meantime."

Jessica Herrin, "the summer and many parties"

State of the Class, Address

Hi! I'm Brian Bearss, the sophomore president. Jodi LePla is this year's secretary. Lisa Butler is the treasurer, and Mike Ryan is our vice-president. These four officers represent the 10th grade class at student council meetings and are in charge of financial decisions.

We all had fun preparing for homecoming this year. The theme of our float was, "Bulldogs Die Hard," with a huge bulldog and a battery as the centers of attention. Many people chipped in, and that made the construction fun. Our class advisor, Mrs. Nancy LePla, gave us support and advise on our project.

The class of '96 is going to be the first to graduate from the new Yale High School. We are looking forward to moving into the new building, hopefully by our senior year.

Many sophomores participate in sports, clubs, plays and other extracurricular activities, so our schedules can be very hectic at times. Most sophomores take drivers training sometime during the year, and getting our drivers license is what we all look forward to. We enjoyed this year and are looking forward to the next two years of high school. Finally, we wish this year's graduating class good luck in the future.

Different Kind of Sport

The thrill of a touchdown, a home run, or your first kill. A sport is only what a person makes it. Out here hunting is an "in demand" sport. More and more people are hearing their call to the wild. Hunting is not as easy as some people may think. You don't just go out and kill something, although that is the general idea. Months of preparation is needed to have a successful season. You have to scout out your land and watch the animals all year round. Why do people hunt? Sophomore Gary Miodowski said that he hunts "to be out with nature and feel spirit of the wind". Many decisions and choices must be made when hunting. If you want to use a bow, gun, or even both. Dwight Harms said "I prefer bow hunting personally. It gives me more of a challenge." Deciding on the right equipment to use, getting everything set and perfect for you is a major factor when it comes to the sport of hunting. Hunting can be great for everyone, no matter beginner or professional so even if your Fred Bear, Ted Nugent or just big Gary, go out, give it all you've got, and most importantly, just have fun!

License to Drive

SIXTEEN! The magical age. Where the freedom and independence you have been longing for, for years is finally here. Yes, you now have your license. Bringing fear to your parents, and money to the insurance companies, you are also opening up a whole new world for yourself. Going where you want, when you want, being on the open road. No more bumming rides from your friends or wondering if you will be stuck home this weekend with no where to go, Amber Goold says she is "relieved I don't have to rely on my parents to take me anywhere, anymore."

Getting your license can be a great experience if handled right. Having a driver's license is not all just fun and games. A big part of driving is learning how to be responsible on the road. Making the right decisions in difficult situations. Realizing your not the only driver on the road, and many peoples lives may be in your hands and vice versa. The expenses of having a license is another responsibility you need to take on. Buying a car and paying insurance will cause a serious dent in pocket book, unless mommy and daddy happen to pay for you, and don't forget gas money, car repairs, and the phenomenal one, paying off all your tickets. But all in all, getting your license is great and something exciting to look forward to.

Q&A

What do you think about having a new school by your senior year?

Tina Moore-"it will be nice to graduate from a new school, it's about time, but some of the new stuff for the school is to much, we don't need it."

Shelly Pierce-"It will be cool being the first graduating class from the new school."

Lisa Butler-"I think it will open new doors and better my education."

What changes would you like to see for next year?

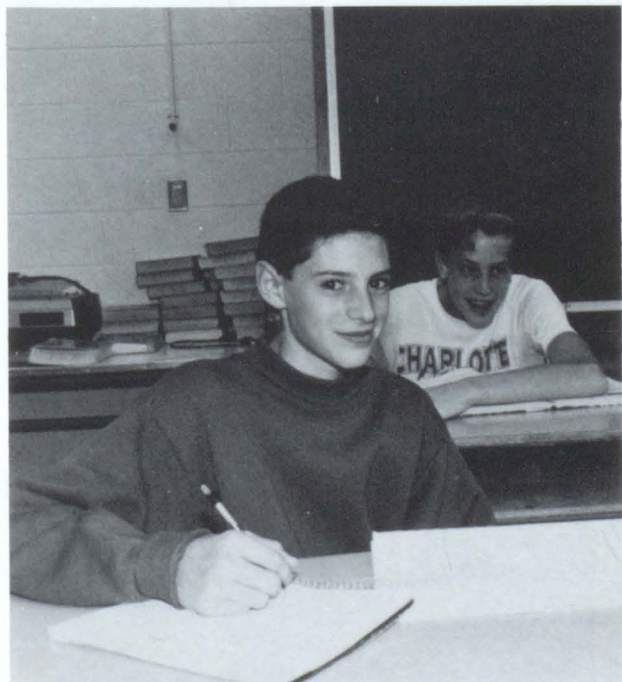

William Mason-"I would like to see a new staff and some rule changes."

Jodie Bowerson-"I would like to have an open campus for lunch and be able to make animal noises in class."

How do you feel about upper classmen?

Mike Weigand- "They think they have authority over us but they don't."

Heather Brown-"I get along fine with upper-classmen, they treat me like an equal."

LETTER OF ADDRESS FRESHMEN PRESIDENT

Hi! My name is Becky Maplethorpe. I am the President of this years freshman class. Helping me out is Vice President Rachel Harrison, Secretary Beth Matthews, and Treasurer Rebecca Mauren. Our first big accomplishment was building our Homecoming float. With the help of several other classmates, and our advisors Mr. and Mrs. Maplethorpe, we believe it was the best. Our idea was, "Where Will You Be When Your Laxative Starts Working?" We plan to remain creative and also keep our sense of humor when building floats in the future. I plan to help change the high school in many ways. The freshman class will sponsor many dances, sales, and fundraisers. I would like to thank the staff and students for a warm welcome into Yale High. I would also would like to thank the freshman class for being so enthusiastic in the upcoming years. I would like to say "Good Luck" to all" in thier upcoming years here at Yale High.

Saying Goodbye

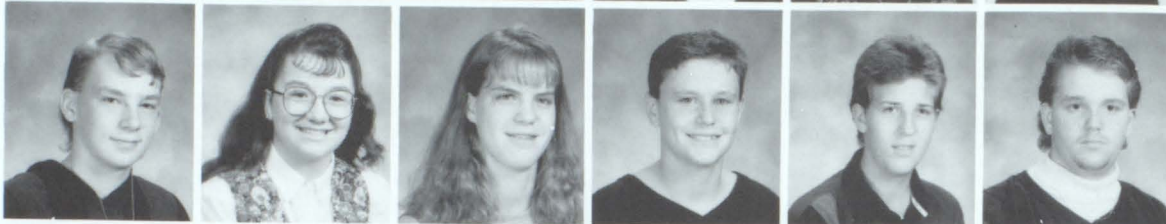

All schools have their share of problems. Our school's major problem is its size. It is getting too small for the growing population. The interior of the building is actually in good condition, but it needs to be modernized. Rather than waiting and tackling these problems one at a time, there is an easier solution. By the year 1995 or 1996, a new Yale High School will be completed. It will be modernized and a lot larger in size. It has been a long and hard battle to get the bond issue passed, but it will be worth the wait. Everyone will benefit from a new school. The students will be happy, and the community will have a cleaner and newer showcase for its children! We couldn't have asked for a better outcome. I asked freshman Amy Schmidt what she thought about the new school and got this answer. "I think students will benefit from a new high school. With the new school, there will be more room in the presently standing buildings. Elementary kids won't have to go to school at night. We will be able to have a greater number of students in our schools. I think everyone will benefit from the new school." Nick Sullivan also had a optimistic response. He said, "I think the students will benefit our economic future. I think this new school will further our education and get better jobs in the future." I also asked Erik Singleton what opinion he had. He said, "I think students will benefit from a new high school because it will be much bigger, and the sports program will be better because of the new sports facilities." In summary, everyone agrees that everyone will prosper from a new high school.

An Eye on Pressure

In the wishing or trying to be loved, liked, or just to be noticed, everyday you're going along with some kind of crowd or in your own little clique, letting others make your decisions for you. There are people out there purposely trying to influence you. I may take the form of advice, persuasion, or pressure. The control of your life is lost as you allow it to happen, and you let them manipulate your actions. This is peer pressure, and it weighs heavily upon teens, especially freshmen. This pressure often leads to immature behavior. It is to blame for many forms of destructive behavior - smoking, drinking, and irresponsible sexual activity. Maybe you're not even realizing or thinking of the consequences of your actions. Peer pressure is positive or negative, depending on the nature of, and reason for, the pressure. One positive gesture would be to influence someone into learning or doing good. Freshmen need good examples. Since they are more likely to follow than lead. So answer this? How does it affect you? And then, why do you let it happen?

Q&A

To complete the freshman section, we rounded up a couple of students and asked a few questions. "What would you like to see changed in this school?"

Eric Singleton. "I would like to leave school to eat lunch, and I don't like having the hard classes."

Robert Wooten. "Small school and too crowded, bigger lockers. And not to have a closed campus lunch."

Rebekah McDonald. "I hate suicide hall. There's too many people in it. Maybe put stop signs up."

Sarah Senkow. "I don't like the freshmen kill day rumors."

More Than Books

This year has been one of the more difficult years for academics and education in the State of Michigan. Governor John Engler and the state legislature has undertaken the process of first eliminating all funding for public education and then trying to rebuild the system of financing for over five hundred school systems. During this process the aftermath has been the bashing of public education, what students learn, and teachers. Much of what the State is recommending has been in place with the Yale School District for years including stiffer requirements for graduation and a strong core curriculum. "It has been an educational experience that I'll never forget," said senior Rob Barr about his 6th hour speed-reading class. Speed-reading is just one of the many classes at Yale High School designed to improve the skills of the students.

Yale High School offers a wide variety of courses for different student s needs like math, science, and English, as well as courses for a students's changing life, such as computer technology and applied math. The face of education will continue to change with more demands placed on schools and what is taught. One of the most noticeable changes to junior Angie Maplethorpe is " I feel everyone puts more in the class homework than they have in the past." The demands for more student time will increase with each new requirement from the state. No one year has been more wrought with changes that will make sure a student gets more out of life.

◆ The High School library is the best place for students to get their work done. Demonstrating this is senior Jodie Meikle as she works quietly on her English homework.

History Mixed With Grammar

"I like learning about the different time periods of literary history," states senior Misty Rapley. The course Miss Rapley is referring to is her College English IV class. Other English courses available at Yale are College and General English I-IV, and Speed Reading.

The teachers in this department are Kathy Taylor, Marilyn Bromberger, Diane Allam, Terry Dagg, and the new edition of Paul Flynn.

Jeff Bechtell states that "my General English III curriculum enhances my Grammar skills."

The teachers in this department do a good job at boosting the students' minds and making them aware of English all around them.

◇ Mrs. Taylor teaches an English class which is eager to learn all the ins and outs of our language.

Business and Home Together

The home economic courses can be a big help to get your basic needs in living in the real world. The home economic courses are just a few electives the student body can select from.

The two teachers in this department are Miss Carpenter and Mrs. Willer. Courses available in this department are Foods I, Food Heritage, Consumer Education, Sewing and Personal Living.

Andrea Rector states that sewing class "is a lot of fun and Miss Carpenter is a very good teacher." Sewing is not all fun; you first need to know how to operate the sewing machines and be able to stitch in a straight line; then you can begin your projects.

Personal living helps students with dating, relationships, and marriages. Diane Anderson states that "you learn a lot about how to deal with conflicts the right way, and next semester we switch to single and married living which I'm looking forward to because marriage is important to me."

"Food Heritage is a lot different than Food I because instead of making ordinary everyday foods, we make foods from Spain to Italy to France, etc.," states Gena Palazzolo. Students also learn about food poisonings and food nutrition. Consumer education teaches students how to manage their finances, to be informed consumers and how to make good decisions when purchasing items.

The Home Economics electives are just a few courses to help students get ready for living in the real world.

Along with the Home economics program, the Business department also prepares students for the real world. Mrs Robinson is the only teacher in this department. The courses Mrs. Robinson teaches are Typing I, II, and III, General Business, Accounting, and Business Law. David Lemon states that "accounting is a good class, and it readies us for the real world."

Fine Arts

Fun, yet educational courses that most students choose to take over their four year high school career. What is this describing? The Fine Arts department of Yale High School.

Fine Arts, which are all taught by Mr. Rod Dewey, consist of Art I, Art II, Art III, Art IV, Photography, and Yearbook. These classes are designed to expand the minds of the students who wish to take them.

Some students who take these classes have an interest in pursuing them as a career. Others may just want to see their potential in these areas. "It's easy because you don't have to be an artist," said sophomore Jeana LaFleche. This statement is very true because you don't have to be exceptionally talented in the area to take the class. These classes were created for students to realize their potential and to learn about the Fine Arts. Not all fun and games, the students learn different styles of drawing and painting and also how to put colors together. In photography, students learn how to make photos out of their own negatives. They work with chemicals to make black & white photos. In Journalism you work with the computer, writing articles for our yearbook. These courses prepare some students for future in these areas, while others are having fun learning what they can.

Sworthwood, Terry

¡HOLA!

The foreign language at Yale is Spanish which is taught by Ms. Sworthwood. Sophomore Eric Runnals stated that "I enjoy Spanish, but I do wish there was different languages such as french, German, and Japanese. It would be very helpful for the future."

Most of the colleges are requiring at least two years of a foreign language for graduating students. Students may keep this in mind when they are scheduling and preparing for college and their futures.

Ms. Sworthwood makes it interesting and it is not all book work. Students make piñatas, work with headsets, and Ms. Sworthwood even makes Spanish foods for the classes.

Even though Spanish is the only foreign language, it's always better than nothing at all.

◇ Teaching a class eager to learn is Terry Sworthwood.

◇ Singing in unison are Nicole Harvey and Mary Kay Rexrode.

◇ Playfully posing for the picture is the Yale High School Band.

Making Beautiful Music Together

The Chamber Ensemble, the choir, and the band have been known to make beautiful music. For the past few years the three groups have performed together at their spring concert.

The Chamber Ensemble is a select group of women and a few gentlemen. This group is involved in intense competition and is one of the top rated ensemble in the state. When they compete they compete against themselves to see how good they are as a group, not compared to other groups. The competitions are rated with 1, 2, or 3 with one being the best and 3 the lowest.

Like the Ensemble, the band also competes, as well as showing their school spirit by playing at the football and basketball games to keep the crowd psyched.

Sometimes overshadowed by the Ensemble, the choir is the largest of the musical groups. The choir also competes at competitions, and they do very well, too.

So, as you can see these three groups do work very hard at "Making beautiful music together!!!"

"I think the science department does a good job because I feel I am learning something!" says Demian Manceau. Classes taught in this department are physical science, environmental science, chemistry, physics, and Biology I and II.

Junior Lindsey Meleg has taken Biology her freshmen year, Chemistry her sophomore year, and is now taking Environmental Science her junior year. She states that, "I enjoy environmental science the best because you'll use it more in everyday life to better your surroundings."

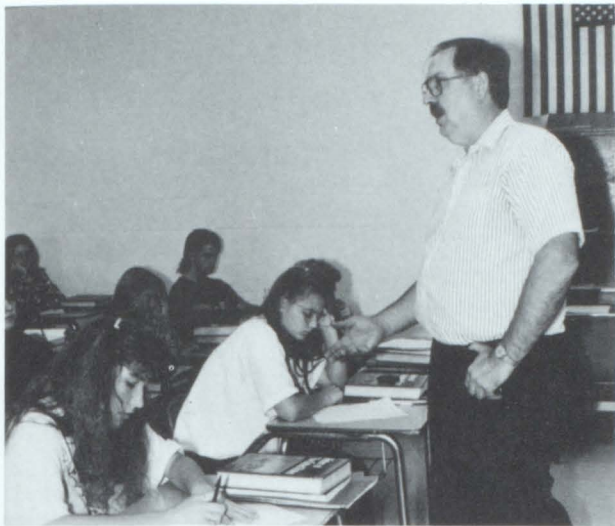

Next time you hear the word science, don't back away; give it a try!

More Than History

"It's very demanding, and it requires a lot of knowledge," states senior Dennis Barr. The course Dennis is talking about is Current World Affairs. That class along with Government, World History, American History, Sociology, World Geography, Parenthood, and Economics are all part of the Yale High School's Social Science department. Each year of high school, students are required to take one or two of these courses, although some of the classes are only one semester long. Senior Diane Anderson stated that, "I think parenthood is really great, and it teaches you how to deal not only with children but with your peers too, which is great even though I don't care to have children."

Like Dennis Barr stated, these courses are very demanding and they do require a lot of knowledge. Social Science classes, by teaching the past and present, help today's students prepare for the future.

Industry & Technology

Industrial Arts, which is taught by Mr. Marcetti, includes Tech I, II, III, Drafting I and II, Woods, Metals, Plastics and various industrial processes are combined into Tech. This department attracts a wide variety of students at Yale. The major attraction to Senior Craig Wissel was, "the ability to use computers in so many classes. I've had eight courses in this department and seven of them involved computers. Even though my career goal is broadcasting, I feel this computer work will benefit me in my career pursuit."

Industrial Tech. classes are interesting subjects and involve a great deal of hard work and concentration. Ryan Wesley stated, "At first, I just took the class because it was different from the ordinary school work, but as the year wore on, I decided to incorporate it into my career as an industrial or product designer."

Students are "Applying Their Minds"

As students were scheduling for classes, they had a new choice in a math class. The new applied math class had quite a high enrollment. Senior Jaime Thigpen thought that, "the class is harder than I thought it would be when I picked it."

The students have hands on experience in this class. They work on real life problems with props. For example, the students popped popcorn to find out the percentage of what popped to what didn't pop. They also washed windows to find out how long and how much they would charge if they were window washers. All the work the students work on is in story problem form. There isn't any practical application. Freshman Joe Michelz stated that, "I enjoy the class even though my last year's teacher picked it for me."

Other math-related courses give students a good challenge, too, yet it seems that math related classes are the toughest. Students are able to pick from Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Computer Math, and Calculus as other math related subjects.

The high enrollment in the new applied math class is showing that students really are "applying their minds!"

Health Kick

Health and physical education are a big emphasis. The courses that are involved in this department are P.E. I and II and health for both the girls and the boys. These courses stress the importance of lifetime fitness and behavior. Although these courses are required by all freshmen to graduate, some students decide to move on and take more of the physical education courses that are offered. Jason Cole states that, "Gym II is a more intense and strenuous version of Gym I. The teacher, Mr. Smith, is a very motivational and inspirational instructor." To insure that students are fit and physical, Yale puts great emphasis on Health and Physical Education. The duo that is the backbone of this department are Mrs. Cathy Arnold and Mr. Wayne Smith.

SUPPORT STAFF

The support staff at Yale High School is very helpful and does a lot to keep this educational facility running smooth. Included in this area are the librarians, office aides, kitchen aides, resource teachers, janitors, and the guidance counselors. All the people in this department do a great deal to help students in any way possible. This might include finding a book, using the phone, being fed, cleaning up the halls, or simply making schoolwork a little more understandable. These people people deserve a hand for keeping Yale High School running very smooth.

Learning beyond class

Not all learning goes on in a structured atmosphere like a classroom. Many Yale High School students extend the learning process by joining clubs and organizations. Groups usually meet after school for worth projects such as teaching the members about ethics, morals and community. Examples of group endeavours have been providing food and presents for needy in the community, conducting blood drives, and teaching others about the responsible use of alcohol. When it comes to clubs and organizations in Yale High School, it's your call. Students are free to choose as many clubs as they want to join or have time for. Some students, such as senior Agata Pellerito, joined the Drama Club. The club is different this year because of the new drama teacher, Mr. Paul Flynn. Agata has been in the Drama Club for four years, and she said what s h e likes about acting is "it's like being another person."

Another popular organization is the F.H.A. This club gives food to needy families around the holidays. Senior Jaime Thigpen joined because she felt "F.H.A. is a good service to the community."

Spanish club is another large club within the walls of Yale High School. This club explores the customs of Spanish life. Cynthia Ostrowski, a junior, said she joined because it's "really fun and interesting," and she thinks "espanol es muy divertido," which translates to "Spanish is very fun!"

Clubs and organizations are a big part of Yale High School. The clubs that students choose to join says a lot about their individuality.

On the Call

Geared toward the student body, the student council helps out with a lot of activity inside the doors of Yale High School. Traditionally, they organized yet another successful homecoming, which was held on October 9, 1993. The float theme was commercials, and the theme was "somewhere over the rainbow." Along with the help of others, they were able to organize a homecoming pep assembly in the park, which included the Jr. High and the whole community. The council is also involved in improving student's attitude, self-esteem, and peer pressures of the 90's. David Dean, a comedian with a meaning, captured all of our attention with his humor at a special assembly. Also, to pitch-in with the fight against drugs and alcohol, they managed to get a more familiar setting, the multi-media. This up-beat, up-to-date, attention-getter, included trendy music and three-screen projectors displaying positive role models and real-life situations. To help outside of the building, they put on an annual blood-drive twice a year. A canned food drive is also on the agenda. A lot of time, dedication, and hard work is a must for student council.

Strong Beliefs

- don't drink and drive
- don't get in a car with someone who has been drinking
- help your freinds to do the same

"It isn't all about not to drink, rather than just drinking and driving." replied Diane Fields when she was asked about the motives of this year's SADDs chapter. Several members attended the 8th annual SADD-MI conference November 13-15. Danielle Francek, Heather Wallace, Christy Shier, Jodie Mickle, and Diana Fields were five out of 650 students from 100 schools across the country, that had an opportunity to hear inspirational speakers and attend numerous workshops. They had a chance to communicate with, and share ideas among other members, and developed an action plan for the year. The members of SADD have three beliefs which consists of not kthey will be offering virgin exotic drinks; such as, strawberry daquiri's, margarita's and pina coladas! A fine thank-you should be given to Mrs. Dean and all members of SADD for making our 93-94 school year a little more exciting and safe at Yale High School!

Science Club

With the 93-94 school year well under way, the science club has already held meetings to decide on a new place to visit. This bunch of future scientists learn new things and go new places. They have already toured the "energy center" and have elected officers at after school meetings. Junior, Mandy Bricker says that "it looks good on her college application." Jay Wofford also agreed and commented that he "learns new things and goes new places." Whatever the reason as to why they are the Science club, they are sure to be outstanding scientific citizens.

Call it Jeopardy

Only the knowledgeable survive! The league consists of 8 teams. They play each school twice during the season. January 13th Yale will attend its first match of the season. They play two matches every Thursday night. A correct answer lets you receive 10 points, which also entitles your team to a bonus question, worth 10 extra points. Each tournament is double elimination. Senator Degrow hosts a tournament at SC4 in which all schools in this district are welcome. Varsity and junior quiz bowl have our support. These helpful members brighten the holidays for the less fortunate. They started this year by providing a needy family with a Thanksgiving dinner.

F.H.A attended many activities throughout the year. They organize functions for groups outside of the school. Carrie Eschker comments that "it keeps me active during my senior year, and it is a lot of fun during the holidays." The club meets every other Tuesday and is planning a trip to Frankennuth in the future. They are all found carrying around boxes of candy bars to support their dues. ".....Your own select group. It feels like you're at the top of the class." This is how Jodie Meikle and all members feel about being a part of the elite club. They definitely should be proud. So, what is the National Honor Society? We're sure everyone has asked this. For starters, you have to have a 3.5 grade point average even to be considered for membership. N.H.S is a nationwide organization with chapters all over the country. Basically, they do various services for the school such as free tutoring and fill in help when needed. They also organize the sixth grade overnight. This is an activity for the sixth grade honor students where they do various challenging activities.

The Equestrian Team had an exceptional season this year coming in second in the class B division. During show season it was not uncommon to find these dedicated team members with their horses up to twenty hours a week. "It's lots of fun and gives us a chance to work with animals as well," says Andrea Rector, who was also the team's high-point rider. Sandra Rispens, this year's foreign exchange student, also enjoyed being on the team as compared to her home in Holland where it is an individual sport. The team thanks their coach Charlene Rector for all her time and effort. Hard work and ambition throughout the year really paid off for the team!

Foreign Affairs

Probably one of the largest clubs at Yale High is the Spanish club. Though we have a limited foreign language department, all students from grades ninth to twelfth have the advantage of being a spanish club member, provided that they have at least one year of spanish class. Some members plan to pursue a career in the foreign language, and others join just to have an extra activity after school and obtain as much as they can about foreign traditions and activities. Foreign exchange student Fanny Nouel thought she'd join because she speaks spanish and will hopefully try to help someone who's interested in spanish. This years chapter is selling candy for an annual trip to Chi Chi's. They will also be having a food fiesta. Members will then decide on a country to base their ethnic cuisine on. Then, their off to the school's home economics room to prepare their foreign delicacies. Good luck in the kitchen amigos!

Calling Your Attention

Dreams of a real auditorium with an acoustic stage, make-up and bright lights is in the minds of every Drama club member. This years Drama members accepted the lack of funding and facilities and shined with their talent. Drama brings together many different types of people who all have one basic dream to accomplish.

Mr. Flynn, who is a new face at Yale High School this year, has brought many fresh ideas and spice with him. This year "Absolutely Murder" was performed by many talented actors. The crew spent eight weeks of long hours filled with stress and anxiety. On November 19th and 20th the performance took place on the Jr. High stage. Many laughs and memories were created. Jennifer Skelton commented "The hard work and determination that we all put in really paid off in the end." Y.H.S is very proud of these individuals - they definitely deserve a round of applause!!

Hola!!!

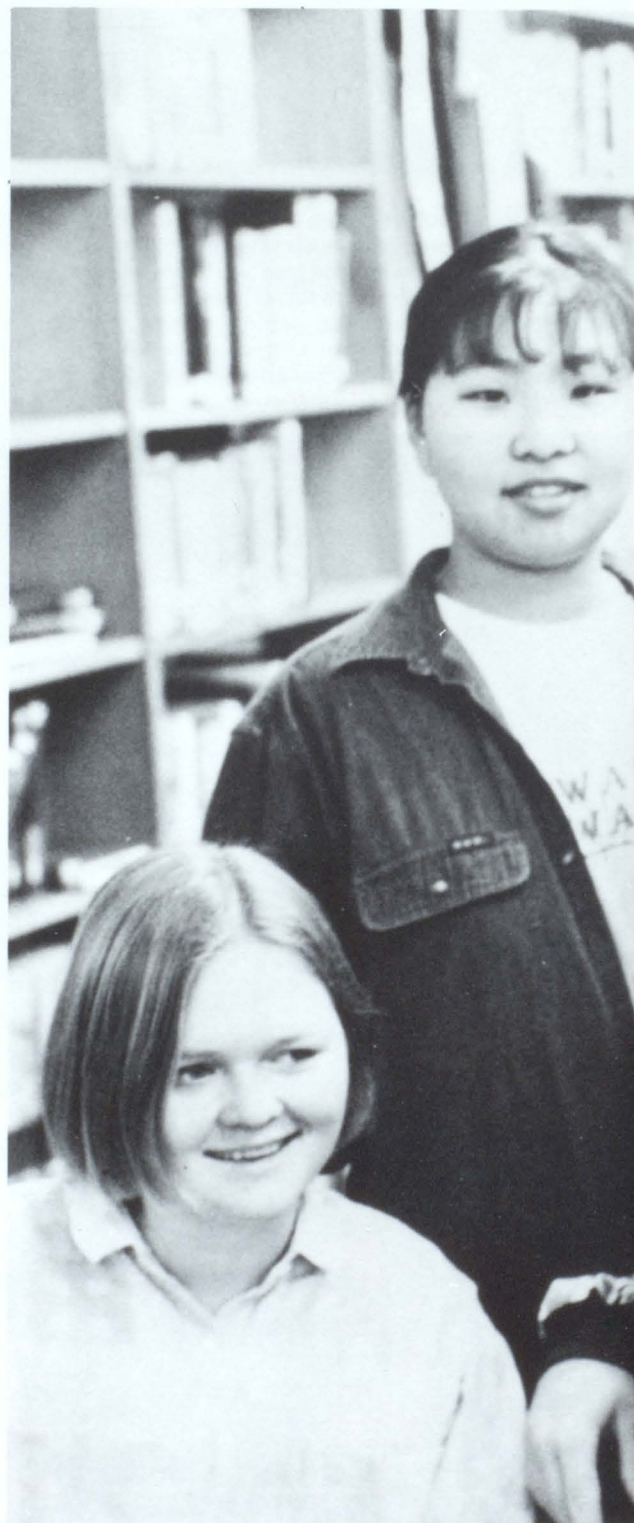

I'm Fanny Nouel from Venezuela. My experience here like an exchange student have gave me the opportunity to know more about myself and one of more important countries in the world U.S.A. From I'm living here my feelings have been a lot and differents each other. Never I'll forget how afraid I was my first day in "Yale High School", I didn't know anybody, my English was weak, to me the people spoke really fast the locker didn't know where I was at. Sometimes i asked to myself, how are you an exchange student? Are you crazy? But the answer was patience and little by little. Thanks to some people took care about me, to the support of my great family (can't be better) right now I'm feeling happy to be an exchange student. Thanks a lot: Mr. Little, Mrs. Robinson, Nichole Richy and Jenifer Parker. For their patience in my worses moments.

Japan

Hello! My name is Yuko Kojima. I came from Japan. I really want to thank everyone, because you always helped me. First several months my English was terrible, so everything was very hard for me. (I hope it's better when you read this.) If i didn't have your help, I could not do anything. I tell you, thank you again.

I experienced a lot of new things like Home Coming, Halloween, and so on. I am glad to come here. I think Yale High School is best in every school including Japanese school. I'm proud of my American life, it is so nice to live here. I will come back here, so I won't say good bye. I will say see you again.

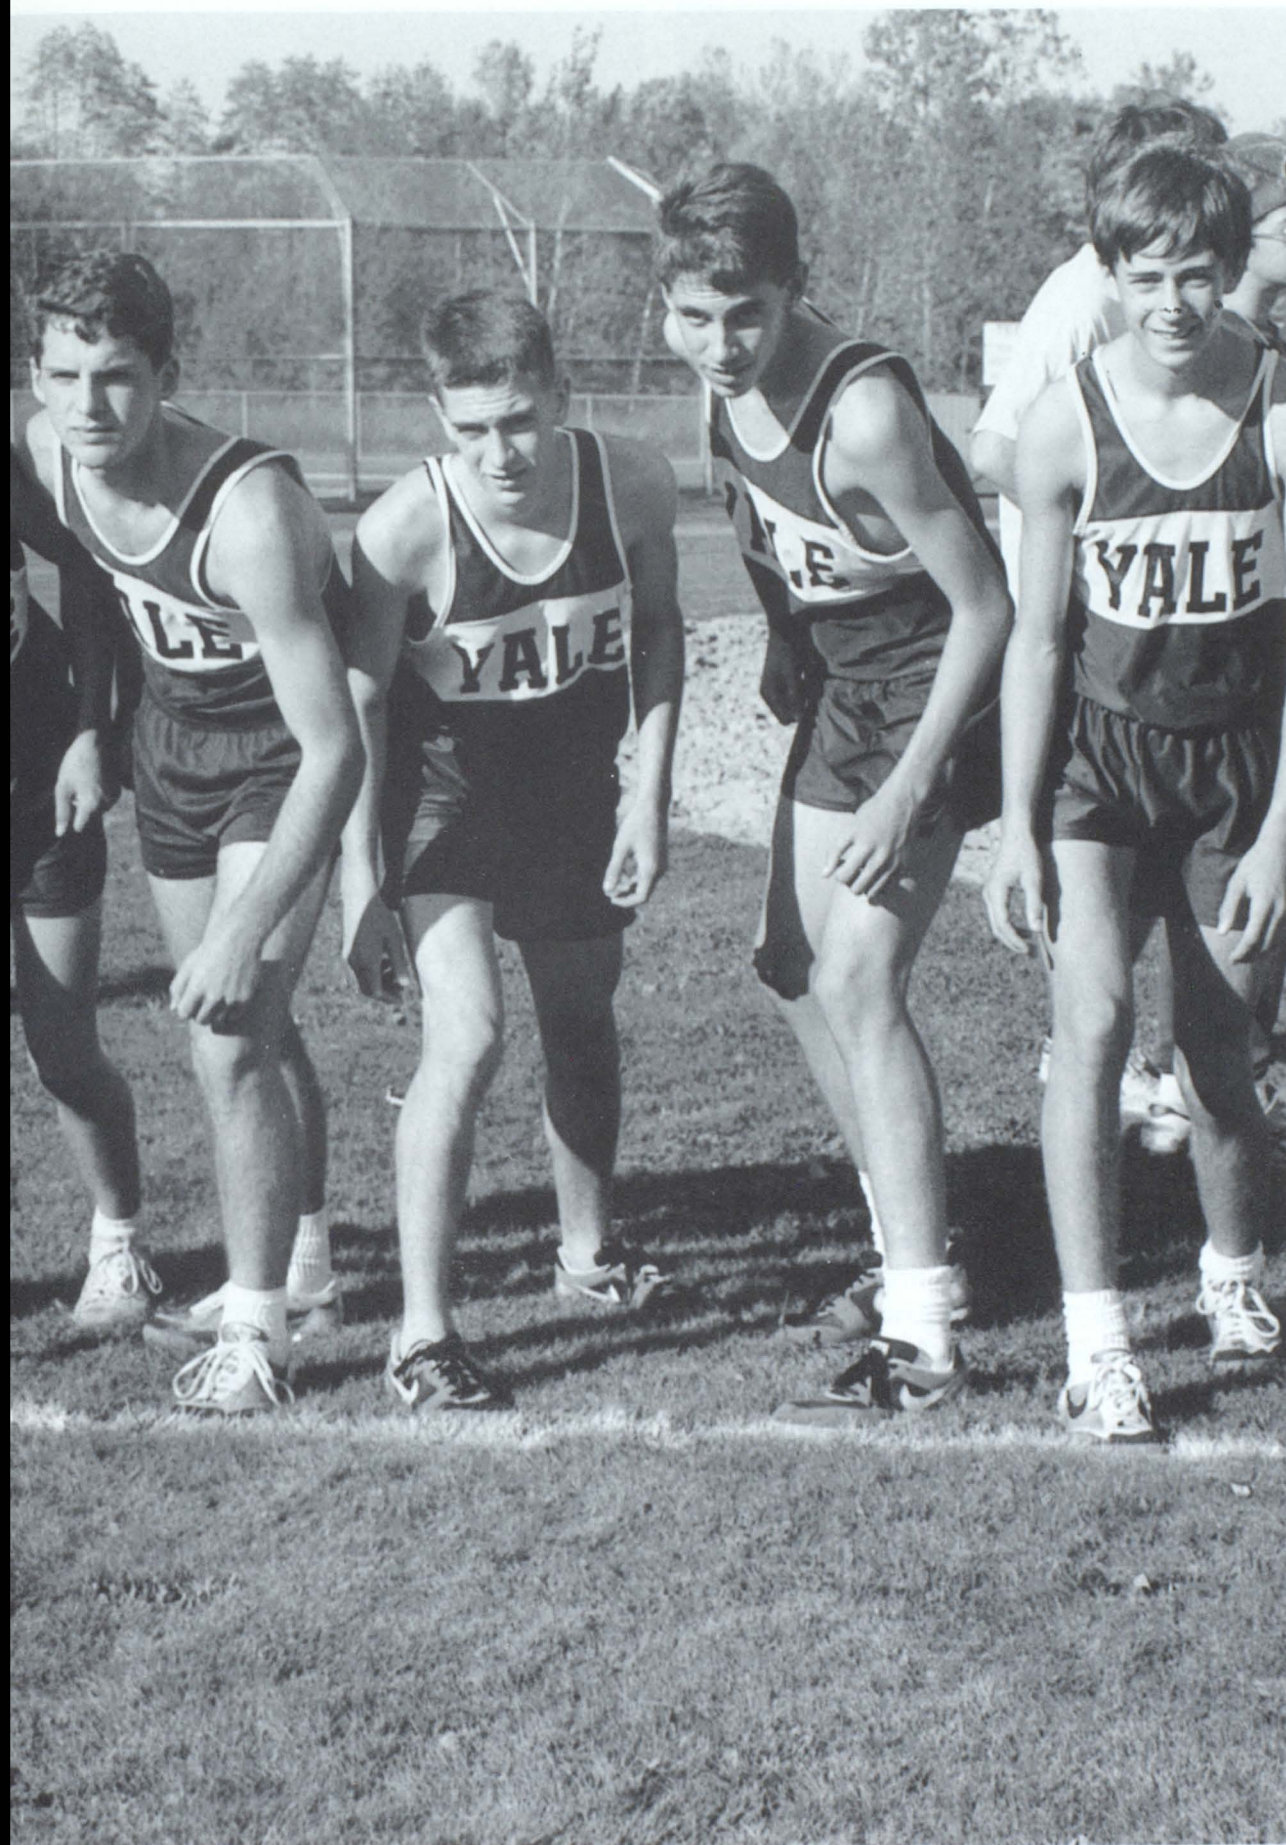

Brawn and Brains

The stereotypical statement of being a "dumb jock" or "all brawn and no brains" is the furthest thing from the truth, and Yale High School athletes are out to prove these statements to be false. In order to participate in a sport, the athletes must have passing grades in all classes. Yale athletes take this one step further. Sixty-seven percent of the fall athletes made the All S.T.A. team. To receive this honor, students must meet the strong requirements of having at least a 3.0 G.P.A. and be earning a varsity letter. This percentage is the highest on record! Yale High School athletes not only use their bodies for the game. Also, it takes strong concentration that comes from their minds.

Johanna LaGore, a senior, was asked her opinion on the eligibility requirements. Her reply, "I think eligibility requirements are good. It stresses academics over athletics and makes the athlete focus on his or her academic performance."

When questioned on how difficult it was to excel in both academics and athletics, Senior Erin Zochowski, an outstanding basketball player, stated, "It was hard to balance studying, practices, and games. It took a lot of time, and I had to miss out on things, but it was worth it." Being known as an athlete in Yale High School is considered an honorable compliment. Sports are a big part of the community. Not only do students attend the sports events, but many other people from this town and other surrounding towns turn out to show their support to the playing team.

◆ Proving that Cross-Country runners are not "dumb jocks" are Demian Maneau, Shawn Gorman, Zyg Porada, Jared Shutko, Greg Goodall, Jason Stayner and Matt Manceau. Although Cross-Country is made up of few members, is still holds a lot of meaning for the CC runners.

V Passes, Tackles V

Many seniors on the Varsity Football Team knew this was their last year to play high school football. That's all the more reason to work harder, and they did just that. Senior Craig Hillis said he finds football very exciting. "You can hit hard and get away with it!" The defense was led by Brian Lossing and Brett Davenport. Receiving records were also set by Brett Davenport, along with Mark Priess. Passing records were set by Derek Davenport. And the leading rusher for the season was Justin Kestner.

The most important game of the season to the student body is Homecoming. The Bulldogs "carried" through with a very successful game with a 22 to 8 win over the Almont Raiders. Apparently the cold, rainy weather wasn't stopping these players. Chris Brown stated that, "It was the best and hardest game we played." Well, it all paid off. The team's hard work and dedication was all worth while. The Bulldogs came out with six successful victories and only three minor losses.

J Plays, Positions V

Football season is a time for hard work, team work, and dedication. For most, it's a chance to improve their football skills for seasons to come. For others, it's preparation for varsity. Learning plays, positions, and building a strong defense and offense all go into a day's practice. It becomes important to set a goal and reach it. Freshmen Mike Ostrander said, "In the beginning my main goal was to achieve playing time, and I did it." Are the coaches fair? Shawn Priess says, "Yes, they alternate players giving everyone a fair chance. I think it is good encouragement for the team. It's also good practice and prepares you for varsity." Ostrander added, "Coach Gallemore and Gillespie worked us pretty hard; they don't cut any slack, but it does us good."

The J.V football team worked hard this season although Shawn Priess added that, "The team needs to learn from mistakes and losses and not be discouraged by them." Priess also added that he feels every player needs to give it his all and participate as much as possible.

◇ Welcoming the crowd on a Friday night with their Hello cheer, is the Varsity cheerleaders.

Patience, Coordination, Hard Work, and Style

They get the crowd going; they stand behind their team. They're our cheerleaders. A lot of time and hard work is put into practices, and it all pays off. Every game day they're out there and for one reason: to cheer their team on. But it's not just at the football games. The cheerleaders are very active in school events. They put together pep assemblies, give all the players pep notes, and decorate all the halls for different functions. And they always show their school spirit from day to day.

"The best part of cheerleading is there are no winners or losers. We're all there to have a good time," said Jodie Meikle.

"It also helps us stay in shape and be with friends." Cindy Bahr, who has been cheering since 8th grade added, "We act as a team. We have a lot of fun together, and our squad is like my second family. Our main goal is to have school spirit, work hard, and have fun."

◇ Mary K Rexrode, Angel Blaszyk, and Vanessa Parker getting the crowd into the game.

Cheering Them On

Our job as cheerleaders is to promote school spirit. To get the players psyched for the game we hang pep notes on each of the players lockers. We also participate in pep assemblies in hopes of getting the student body pumped for the upcoming game. At the games we do crowd cheers to get the crowd involved. Crowd cheers have a positive effect on the players. They know that everyone is rooting for them, not just the cheerleaders. The more pumped the crowd is the more exciting the game becomes. We feel like we're making a difference. Cheerleaders aren't always given the recognition that they deserve. As cheerleaders, our job is not the same as those of other sports. We require different skills; however, no matter what the consequences are win or lose we support our players. We always put forth 100%.

Good Times, Bad Times

Happiness and sadness. It is strange how two completely opposite words can describe a season so well. The happiness was that it was a great season and a promising future. On the other end, though, was the resigning of a coach and the heartbreak of a disappointing loss in districts. What can you say about this year's girls' basketball team? It certainly was one to remember.

Under the program of Sandy Rutledge, this year's team was a nice close to his five years here. In his first season the Bulldogs only won five games. However, this year his girls' team went 16-6, breaking a school record for wins. They also set the Southern Thumb Association school record going 10-4 in the league. They finished third in the STA. In districts, The team made a quick defeat of Algonac and then they were ready to take on Marine City. It was a grueling thriller that came down to the end, where the Bulldogs came up short losing by four. It was a sad end to a great season. In addition, some other highlights for the team were they led the area in 3 pointers made, and they averaged almost 60 points a game.

At the Fall Sports Banquet more awards were handed out. Johanna LaGore and Kelly Falter were awarded Co-Most Valuable Players. Jenny Beschoner won the Intensity award. The Hustle award was taken home by Audrey Brennan. Also, the Coach's award went to Erin Zochowski. After the awards were handed out, the girls (with tear-filled eyes) gave Mr. Rutledge his gift and said their final goodbyes.

So many emotions involved in this year's season. Joy, enthusiasm, sadness, and disappointment. But the one emotion that the players, the parents, and all the fans have for this team is pride. For this was a heck of a season and no one will forget that.

It doesn't get much better than this!

What usually precedes Varsity basketball? Yes, of course, the warm up, but don't forget the Junior Varsity basketball team. When most people think of JV basketball, they think of boredom and young unskilled players. But this year's team does not bring that to your mind at all. The JV had an outstanding year and played well.

The girls excited the fans this year with a 17-3 overall record. They were also 13-1 in the Southern Thumb Association. Incidentally, the bulldogs were co-champs of the STA. They had to settle for the "co" because of a close loss to Brown City. Lisa Butler summed up the season by saying, "It's been a fun season, and I think we had to be one of the most improved teams in the area." Some of that improvement may have happened because the JV players would sometimes practice with the Varsity. However, the credit of their great season belongs to the girls that played the games.

Individual awards given out to the team were Lisa Butler was awarded Captain. Nicole Marshall was given the Offensive Leader award, and Michelle McClarity was honored by the Defensive Leader trophy. Furthermore, the Hustle award was won by Wendy Harnden and Tricia McCormick. Finally, Jenny Armstrong took home the Coach's award.

A great season brings a lot of promise to the girls' basketball teams to come. Hopefully the JV girls will take their skill to the Varsity game and have just as good a record. Well, at least, we have got something to look forward to.

First rate. Boys go to state.

All work and no play makes life pretty boring. The Boys' Cross Country team took this to heart. Sure the guys worked hard. It is kind of hard not to in this sport. But, the guys found a way of mixing play with their work. "We're a pretty close bunch; we would have the greatest time at meets and after meets 'cause we did things together," commented senior Matt Manceau. This camaraderie made the Boys' Cross Country team one of the best Yale has ever had.

The year started off with a lot of young faces. There were only two seniors on the team, but that did not stop the Bulldogs. In fact, they had a pretty strong regular season. Of course, they wanted more. Regionals were coming up, and the guys knew if they could place in the top three, they would go to state. So, the stage was set. Regionals came around, and the boys' team put its heart and soul into the race. The guys each ran about their best times and finished second. This earned them a spot in the State Finals. Not only did they earn a spot, but they became the first Yale Boys' team to go to the State Meet, ever. The Bulldogs ran in the State Meet and placed a respectable 17th, thus, capping a remarkable season.

Individual honors won by the team were Demian Manceau was named to the All-Area first team. Matt Manceau and Jared Shutko were on the second team. At the Fall Sports Banquet Demian Manceau received the Most Valuable Runner award. Matt Manceau and Jason Stanyer were given the Outstanding Senior and Freshman awards, respectively. In addition, the Coach's award was won by Jared Shutko, and Zyg Porada took home the Toughness award.

The Boys' Cross Country team is one of the best Yale has ever had. They did well and enjoyed themselves while doing it. There is not much more you can ask for from a team. So, we won't.

DYNASTY

Determination, "guts," nerve. Not just anyone can be a cross country runner. You have to have certain qualities. Qualities like the above are some you need. But what makes you want to put yourself through the anguish of running 3.1 miles? Ronalyn Willard's reason was, "I run for the feeling of accomplishment after the race." Hopefully, this helps explain it, but the only way to really know is to be a runner.

This year's season was a typical one for the Yale girls. Not trying to say it was typical for any cross country team, but it was typical for Yale. This year the Yale girls went to State Championships for the seventh straight year in a row. The girls again won the chance to go to the State Meet by taking second place at the Regionals. At the State Meet, the girls finished 12th. The main reason for the girls' strong season was a strong core of upperclassmen and a surprisingly good crop of young freshmen to support them.

Many awards were given to the members at the end of the year. Jenny Spiller was named runner of the year in the area. Also, Ronalyn Willard and Kim Boughner were named to the All-Area First Team. Named to the Second Team was Stacey Sopha and Erin Gottleber. The Fall Sports Banquet led to honors awarded to Jenny Spiller for most valuable player. Outstanding Senior and Freshman went to Ronalyn Willard and Erin Gottleber, respectively. Plus, the "toughness" award went to Laura Pelt. Finally, Stacey Sopha took home the coach's award.

These women showed just how tough they were. They put themselves through the rigorous practices and dedicated their lives, so they could be the best they could be. Most everyone thinks they have succeeded.

Near "Perfect" Season 1-19

It's Fantastic, Well maybe it is for the opposition. IT was just a hard season for the varsity boy's basketball team this year. After losing over half the team to graduation, there was much talent to be replaced. The team needed experience but that was gone. Young players replaced the old and tryed their hardest, but in a strong league it didn't do much good. The team still finished with a dismal end.

Although the season wasn't a victory, the guys still managed to hold their heads up and keep playing their best. This positive attitude finally paid off on the last game when the team won a game against New Haven, after going into triple overtime. The gym was full that night because it was Parent's Night, and the excitement was like electricity in the air. All in all, the team was kept up with positiveness.

Waiting For The Big Time

◇ Making his move is Chris Backstrom.

Waiting for the big time. Junior Varsity is about getting to the top. They're not the lowest, but they are not as high as they want to be. This years team is like any other. They want to play ball, but with the best competition. While they're waiting, the junior varsity team put together a descent season. With a nice record and plenty of hard work, the team had a season they can look back on with pride. Now they are ready to move on to the next level.

The J.V. was very hard working and it showed in the end. With an overall record of 13 and 20, the team's victories were high. Teamwork and communication was one of the major factors involved in this year's productiveness. Without them, the team would have a long wait before they are prepared enough for the big time.

A New Level!

This is where it all begins. The beginning for boy's basketball starts at the 9th grade level. They can give us a look at what future JV and varsity teams have to look forward to. This year the future looks bright. The Bulldogs had a fair record and they showed hints of talent. Although some major freshmen were promoted to JV, the team still played well. They showed that the Yale basketball program does have promise.

With an overall record of 6 and 17, the freshman team showed that they don't take basketball lightly. The 13 eager young players proved that all it takes to make a good season is to know the meaning of teamwork, and follow through on it. These boys made their beginning season a memorable one.

It's All In The Competition

The Main thing that seems to be on the minds of our varsity basketball cheerleaders is competition. This is the first season cheerleading has been recognized as an actual sport. This means that the official rules and regulations of the competition have been changed. For instance, the judges need to be sanctified by the MHS A A (Michigan High School Athletic Association.) Also they are raised to three rounds of cheers where it used to be two rounds of cheers and a dance. The cheerleaders are also now allowed to hold two high where as before it was only one and a half.

Although time was cut short to prepare for this years competition, Senior Tracy Kern said "I have a lot of confidence in our squad, we've worked hard in the time we had and I feel we are ready!" Carrie Eschker said "Once competition time came around, things got serious." This is Carrie's first time cheering and she is on the varsity squad. Eschker didn't have enough to say about how much fun she is having and also stated that "I like cheerleading because we all get along together not just as a squad but as friends." When Carrie was asked how she liked the coaching she smiled and stated that "Barb is great and when someone is doing something wrong she doesn't single them out. Her patience and great style of coaching is what gets us where we are."

Working Together, Where It Matters

Cheerleading for basketball is more challenging this season. This year the girls were allowed to go two people high in mounts. This means they can fully extend their mounts, such as shoulder stands. Therefore the practices are longer and more frequent, but this helps in preparation for future competition. According to Nicole Harvey "I'm looking forward to competing at the Varsity level because I think it will be fun and exciting."

The squad is very proud to represent their school. Mrs. Flynn, the coach said, "It is always rewarding to see us working together where it matters, on the court. We love to see the crowd pumped." The team is very proud to cheer on a very supporting J.V. basketball team. The challenge of this year's season has given the squad something to cheer about.

WHAT'S ALL THE RACKET?

Coordination and speed are the two major things that are required in the game of tennis. There are 15 players on the 1993 Yale High School tennis team. Mr. Steve Hunt coached the team.

Although tennis is a difficult sport, the team shows no stress on the court. There is a sense of unity among the team members that resulted in their successful season.

The game of tennis requires coordination and speed to make for a good match.

"Pooh Bear!"

Now what does "Pooh Bear" have to do with golf? For those who know the golf team, you hear it quite often from them. "It's a nickname," says senior Jay Wofford. But, why do they call him that? No one will say in here, but if you ask them, they will tell you.

What about the season? Improvement was the goal for the Yale golf team this year, and that is just what they achieved. With seven seniors returning from last year, things looked promising. Consequently, after a dismal, winless season last year, the Bulldog golfers bounced back and finished in fourth place among seven teams in the Southern Thumb Association. Their record was 4-8 in the STA and 5-11 overall. With a new coach and a new attitude, the Bulldogs steadily improved their scores with every match. Coach Mitch Robinson also commented on the fact that, "We had quite a few close matches. A few strokes here and there and our record could have been even better." Another plus for the Bulldogs was the naming of Jeff Kendall first team all STA. Also, Ken Kovach was named second team all STA, and Brian McClelland and Matt Hasler were honorable mentions. At the end of the season, team awards were given out. Co-captains were Jeff Kendall and Ken Kovach. Awarded Most Valuable Player was Jeff Kendall. Most Improved player was Jay Wofford, and the Coach's award went to Brian McClelland. "Pooh Bears" and mediocrity. That's what made up the Yale golf team this year. And what a year it was.

Young Team Work

This year's volleyball team is a young one, with only three seniors. Senior, Johanna LaGore stated that, "We're doing exceptionally well for a young inexperienced team." Senior, Erin Zochowski said, "This year it's hard to adjust to different coaches, it's a different style of coaching". Senior, Allison Pierce added that, "It's alot more aggressive".

Junior Angie Maplethorpe said "This year's team is stronger and working harder, and the competition is alot harder".

Junior Jennifer Trupp simply stated, "I've grown up playing volleyball, It's what I love to do. I feel we have good hitters and passers and we should do really well."

The players all agreed they liked the game, because it's fun. When asked what they like the most, Erin Zochowski said, "I would have to say the intense competition." Senior Johanna LaGore stated, "Definitely the tournaments." And Allison Pierce added, "It's a team oriented sport you really need to work together.

Although there are many high points in playing volleyball, there are always areas that are weak. Angie Maplethorpe thought the team works good together, but communication is very important and they need to work on that.

Bumps, Sets, and Spikes

Bumps, sets, and spikes are all very important plays when it comes to this game, but like every other sport, good team work and communication is critical to win the game. It's not a matter of one or two good players making it happen. It has to be the whole team with great communication on the court.

Dawn Valcore said that "They have very good team spirit. They've got what it takes".

Bethany Matthews says "it's a lot more difficult this year. It's more of a challenge." She also said, "I love the game, and the competition".

Amy Schmidt, a middle hitter, said "We're a better team this year. Our coach showed us how to respond better, and we learned stronger plays".

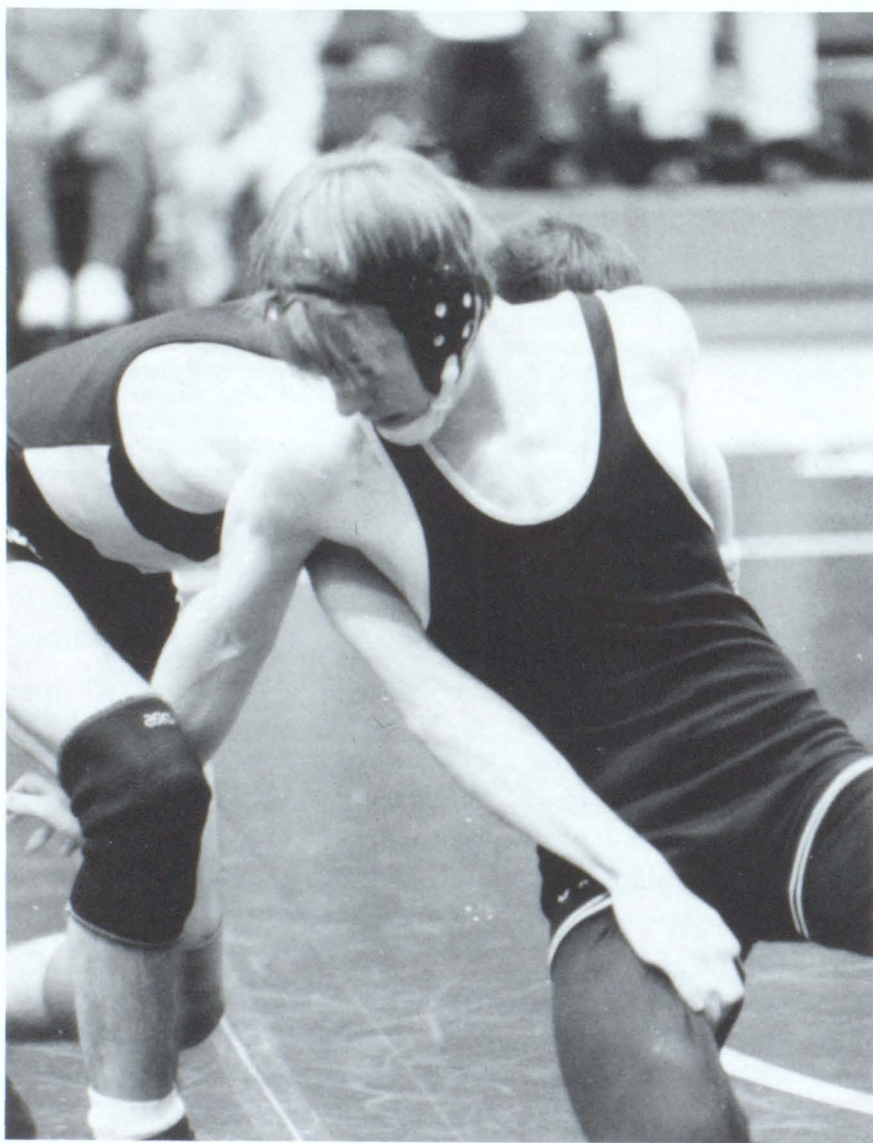

It is always hard on a team when someone carries a negative attitude but in this J.V. team that's not the case. The team all agreed that they have good communication. Amy Schmidt ended with "Coach Nadine is great! She always tells us its not whether you win or lose. But when we win, we jump up and down and get really excited! You can tell she is proud of us and it gives us a lot of hope and incentive."

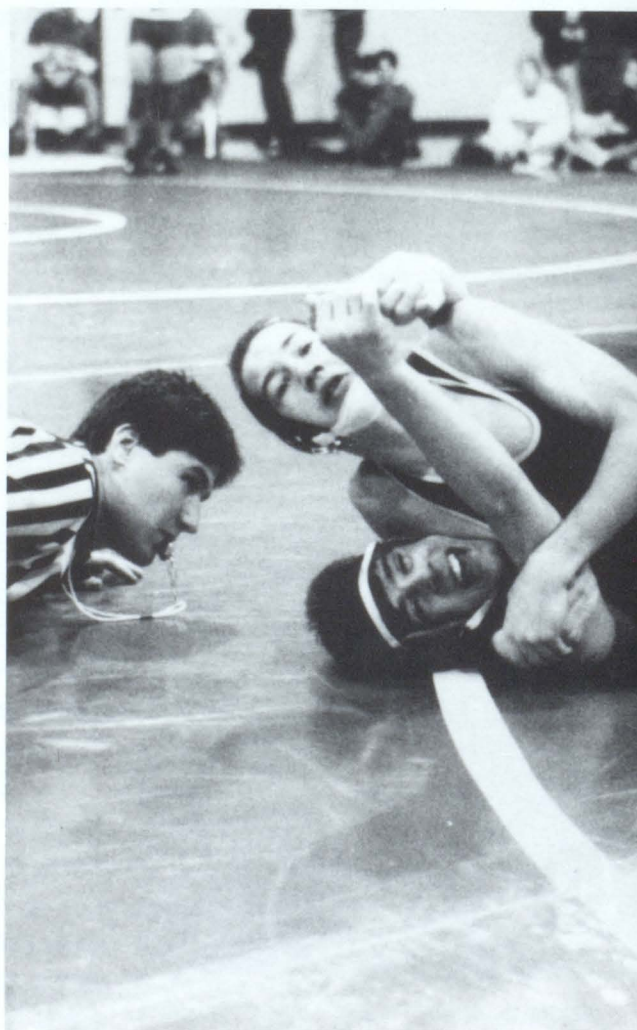

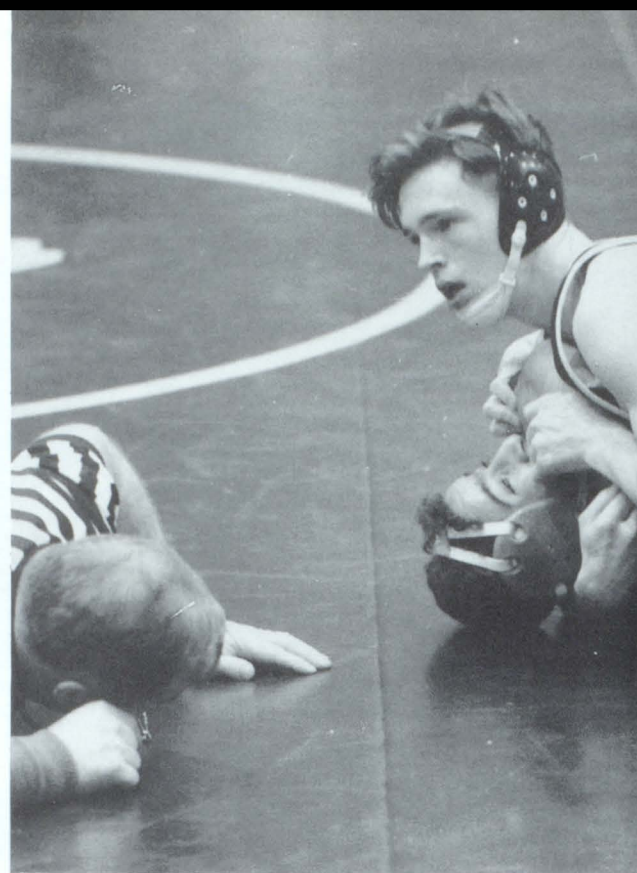

◇ Setting the ball up for what could be the game winning spike is Junior Jenny Trupp.

Hit The Mats

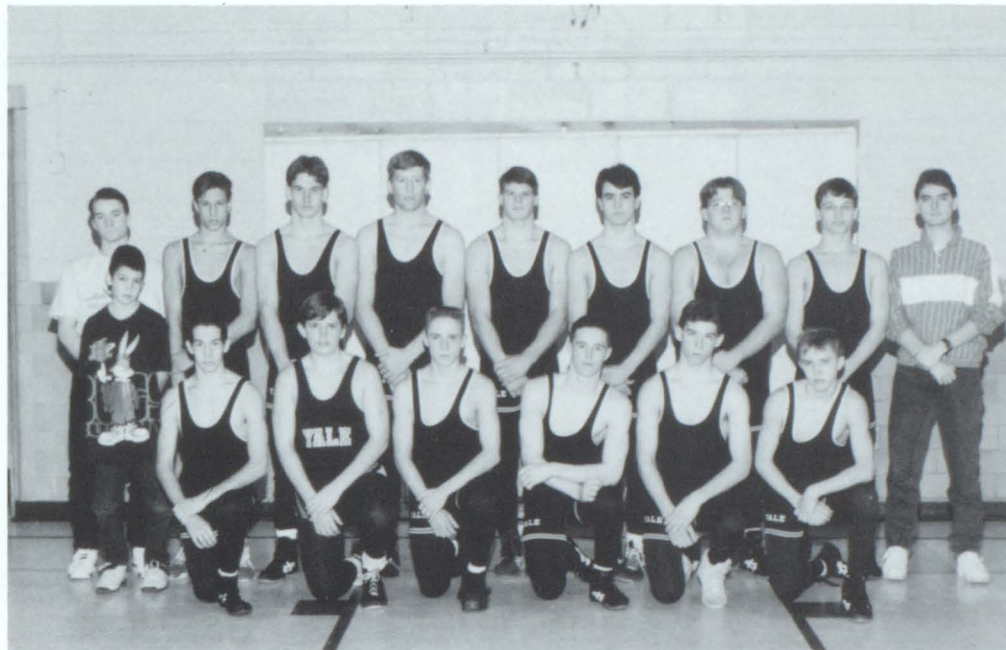

Tradition. That's what Yale Wrestling is about, and that is what it will always be about. Although this seasons team isn't as successful as past teams, this years team is no slouch. In light of the fact that the team was plagued with some crucial injuries, the team still had a surprisingly good record. There was some team friction though. It seems that some of the younger grapplers and the veterans did not get along as well as most teams. It tended to affect the teams cooperation, but Coach Peltier still helped the team play well and put another notch in his belt of successful seasons.

SUCCESS

Success is a key work among the Yale High School varsity baseball team. The 1993 season has shown a lot of hard work and determination on the baseball diamond. There are 14 persistant players on the team who cooperate well with each other during the games.

The coach, Don Smeznik, led the guys to an overall season of 20 wins and 7 losses while finishing 13 wins and 2 losses in the STA.

When asked about their outstanding season, junior Travis Fahley said that "the force behind our playing stems from the unity of our players." Dennis Barr, also a junior, agrees with Travis and adds that "cooperation is definiately a key word in the game of baseball."

THE KEY IS COMMUNICATION

The 1993 Yale High School junior varsity baseball team had an outstanding season. The team is made up of 15 freshmen and sophomores. Mr. Pat Gallemore coached the JV team for the second year with an overall record of 13 wins and 8 losses.

"Playing baseball is an exhilarating experience" said sophomore Brian Campbell. He also added that the guys are "very team-oriented and know how to communicate well with each other on the playing field."

An outstanding effort was made prominently by the 1993 Yale junior varsity baseball team.

HARD WORK AND DETERMINATION

"We are doing something that we enjoy, yet we are learning self-discipline at the same time" is how sophomore Jaime Kinney assessed the 1993 Yale High School varsity softball team. There are 14 hard working girls on this year's team; including four sophomores, four juniors, and six seniors. Mr. Mitch Robinson coached the team this year. This year's team shows a lot of dedication to the sport of softball. The girls express a lot of unity and closeness on the playing field. "Togetherness is what makes our team a team" is what sophomore Jennifer Campbell said about the relationship of the team members.

Varsity softball is a popular sport among the girls in Yale High School.

PART OF THE GAME

Junior varsity softball is a popular sport at Yale High School. The 1993 team consists of 18 freshmen and sophomore girls. Although this season has been rough, with the field being sloppy from the weather, the girls seem to be doing well with their 7-11 overall record.

Sportsmanship is a big part of the game of softball. Although it is a competitive sport, there is a lot of friendliness on the field. When asked what she liked best about playing softball, Jessica Herrin, the team's captain, responded "It is a lot of fun. We have a good coach, and she really knows what she is doing out there. Our team wouldn't be where it is today if it weren't for Tracy Kavanaugh, our coach."

Softball is a big part of the spring sports season in Yale High School.

SPEED AND GRACEFULNESS

The combination of speed and gracefulness is the building block of the 1993 boys and girls Yale High School track team. Mr. Dams led the team to a successful season.

"When you mention the word track, most people only think about running, but there is a lot more to it than that. They don't stop to think about the discipline part of it", said sophomore Jenny Beschoner of the sport.

Newsmakers

First Lady, Hillary Rodham Clinton, chaired the White House task force that devised the health security plan. The proposal calls for employers to pay 80 percent of their workers' average health-care premiums and workers would pay the rest. Small businesses and low-wage workers would get subsidies to help pay their share. The plan would cost the federal government an extra 350 billion dollars over five years, and Clinton hopes to get most of the money from holding down spending on medical and medicine, boosting cigarette taxes by at least 80 cents a pack and imposing a special levy on corporations that set up their own health plans.

Floods hit the Midwest in late spring and early summer—thousands of farms and homes were lost, fields were swamped and towns were submerged. The states that got hit hardest were: Iowa, Illinois, and Missouri, causing billions of dollars in damage. As the waters began to recede, barges began to move along the Mississippi River, and people began digging out their mud-filled homes. President Clinton signed a $5.7 million aid to help the victims.

Pope John Paul II visited the United States for the third time since becoming pope 15 years ago. The 73-year-old pontiff attended World Youth Day, a week-long pilgrimage that brought nearly 200,000 youths from around the world to Denver. President Clinton and Vice President Gore travelled to Colorado to meet the Pope.

Yasser Arafat made history in September when he signed a peace treaty with Israel. The leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization once told a reporter: "I am a freedom fighter. I am sure this is the way that history will remember me."

Shiek Omar Abdel-Rahman was the accused leader of a group of terrorists that set a bomb in the World Trade Center. More than 1,000 were injured and six died. The Egyptian Sheik had been linked to numerous terrorist plots to bomb other New York buildings, the United Nations and Lincoln and Holland tunnels.

In September the Bosnia parliament rejected an international peace plan for the devastated republic. The move, post-poned the settlement that would have ended the 18-month-old war that has partitioned the country into three states, the Croates, Muslims, and Serbs. The United Nation has sent a peace-keeping force to the former Yugoslavia to help keep the peace among the three warring nations. Tens of thousands of people have been killed in the conflict and more than a million have been left homeless.

Popular Music

It has been yet another triumphant year for Rock music. Bands like Soul Asylum and Spin Doctors finally grabbed onto the Billboard charts, and bands such as Nirvana and Pearl Jam continued their hold on the Hot 100. The 90's have so far been the decade of rock music whereas in previous years Dance and Pop music had been on top of the charts. The year 1993 was also a comeback year for 80's music. Duran Duran enjoyed renewed success with their hit self-titled album and several Top 10 singles. Another popular 80's act, Cyndi Lauper, started gaining chart ground again with her first album in four years, Hat Full of Stars.

Rap music took an interesting turn this year, with groups like Cypress Hill, House of Pain, and Onyx bringing elements of alternative music into the rap formula. One band which refuses to be called a rap group, Rage Against the Machine, mixes Heavy Rock with angry political rap lyrics. They enjoyed success nearly a year after their album came out, due to their participation in the Lollapalooza tour.

Although several types of music were successful through the year, Rock music remained the champion. Nirvana's In Utero and Pearl Jam's Vs. both debuted at number one on the Charts. Bands such as Stone Temple Pilots and Alice In Chains, were constantly in the Top 10. Sick of artificial music, the people raised their voice this year.

Scandal

In the midst of yet another successful tour, a bomb was dropped on Michael Jackson. In fall, child molestation charges were brought against him. His Dangerous tour continued, but then crashed and burned in November when he admitted an addiction to pain killers. He then went into hiding, claiming to be in rehabilitation to kick his addiction.

Amy Fisher, the teen who's been in jail for shooting her alleged lover's wife. Fisher testified against Joey Buttafuoco, in return he is serving six months in jail for statutory rape.

As many as 86 died in a fire that burned down a compound in Waco, Texas, where cult followers of David Koresh lived. A 51 day siege was held on the compound by ATF agents until it ended. On April 19, a fire was somehow started and broke loose in the compound. Koresh and his followers died in the fire.

Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan competed in the Olympics. Tonya was implicated in the beating of Nancy Kerrigan which almost prevented both from competing. Kerrigan won a silver medal for her figure skating performance.

Entertainment and Sports

After a two year absence, Julia Roberts returned to the screen with The Pelican Brief. The movie came after her surprise wedding to country singer, Lyle Lovett. In other movie news, What's Love got to do with It? was the autobiographical tale of Tina Turner's abusive relationship with former husband Ike Turner. This year also returned her to the concert stage, supporting the movie and soundtrack album.

David Letterman signed a multi-million dollar deal to bring his late night show to the CBS network. After an eleven year run with NBC, Letterman made the switch to get an 11:30 time slot. The show, now called The Late Show, is broadcasted from the renovated Ed Sullivan Theatre.

Michael Jordan shocked sports fans when he announced his retirement. This came after his father was robbed and then gunned down by two young men. Bill Laimbeer of the Detroit Pistons also retired this year, stating that he just could not play as hard anymore.

Local Support

The following pages are without a doubt some of the most important pages of any yearbook. The advertisements are the reason that the yearbook class can offer what we offer to the student body. Without them, we wouldn't have quite the advanced yearbook. The yearbook class receives its revenue from only two sources: advertisements and sales of the book to students. The estimate for the yearbook production for the three hundred and seventy books sold this year is approximately thirteen thousand dollars, and without the support of the local businesses, the cost to the students would be $35.14.

The support of the school system goes beyond just support to the yearbook. During many different activities that happen here at Yale High School, these local businesses give generously. Homecoming, the canned food drive, prom, or graduation, these advertisers help the students in any way they can.

At the beginning of the year, the students of the yearbook staff are sent on a mission to sell as many ads as they can. Each sale helps support the yearbook to further its accomplishments. By looking through these last few pages, you can see how successful the staff of the yearbook was with their task.

And again, the staff of the yearbook would like to extend its appreciation to businesses who have supported our endeavor.
